Seeking Montessori Elementary Teacher for January 2021

We are seeking an Elementary Montessori teacher with a love for learning, growing, and being part of something special. We are currently an unlicensed school (with six students) that will soon lead to an established, licensed school- one that goes beyond the typical school. We not only focus on cognitive, social, and emotional development, skill building, and creating independence, but something beyond that, much more unique & special. We help facilitate self-esteem, self-compassion, and a growth/bulletproof mindset, as well as going deeper by instilling empowering beliefs in the children that will set them up for a lifetime of success in all facets of their life. We're looking to be different, innovative, and truly unique.
This is based on advanced psychology and neuroscience that will be applied in the children's environment.
We believe in the continuous flow of communication between teacher, child, and parents. We believe that everyone needs to evolve in their learning, understanding, and their development.

We will be providing additional training in psychology and neuroscience that will be able to be directly applied to the children and the environment.
This is also an opportunity for a teacher to get in on the ground floor with interest in being a part of a team and potentially a larger leadership role in the future, creating a paradigm shift in education.

We are looking for a teacher with a passion for empowering children, a love for learning and having fun. We're looking for a teacher with emotional intelligence, empathy and patience. A teacher that is able to adapt to the children's learning needs, new environments, and new research. A teacher that can think on her feet, has the ability to constantly evolve and come up with creative solutions, and go above and beyond.

If you are a teacher that has a drive for continuous self-development as a priority in your life, are open-minded, and enjoys collaborating with others and building something beautiful, then this role is for you.

The child age range is 5.5-9 years old.
We are looking for someone that has minimum 2 years experience.
We offer competitive pay.

We believe it is critical at this time to make sure the children are building resiliency in this unprecedented time. An environment that doesn't breed fear, but critical thinking. An environment where it's encouraged for children to interact without being encumbered by distance restrictions or covering up those beautiful, happy faces.
